NEVADA CITY: Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins has sent a report to the sheriff of Ventura County concerning the death of Constantino M. Areoga, 27, a native of Texas, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage in the county hospital Tuesday morning after being rushed by ambulance from Truckee to Nevada City.

The sheriff states that Arteoga had been employed by the Southern Pacific Company to work in Truckee. Arteoga arrived in Sacramento Monday, was employed that day and came to Truckee. Monday night he lapsed into unconsciousness.

An autopsy yesterday revealed a fractured skull and a blood clot on the brain. The injury, the doctors believe, ocurred a week ago, probably while the man was employed as a lemon picker by the Briggs Lemon Association in Santa Paula, Ventura County. PONY TO BE HORSE SHOW PRIZE

GRASS VALLEY: The Nevada County Fair Association has arranged for the purchase of a sleek, highly spirited, but gentle pony by the name of "Chiquita" to be given away to some lucky person attending the Horse Show Friday and Saturday, August 27th and 28th, at Watt Park, Grass Valley, in connection with the Nevada County Fair.

This is a prize that any household in Nevada County would welcome with open arms—She will really fit into your home setting—Well trained, a lady in all respects, fond of youngsters, intelligent and just a regular "all around lady", she will win your heart.

A member of the Gold Trail Riders will visit Nevada City in the near future, displaying "Chiquita" to the populace. When you see her, you'll say: "that's my pony"—Maybe it will be—Your chance of winning "Chiquita" is as good as the next fellow's—All you have to do is attend the Horse Show. More details, later.

POLICE HUNT FOR BUS LINE BANDIT

While Shaw was picking out his choice, he states, he produced a revolver and pointed it at Shaw and said: "Let's have it." There was no car in the vicinity.

FAIR TO BE SMASHING SUCCESS; NEEDS MORE EXHIBIT ENTRIES

GRASS VALLEY: The dates, August 26-27-28-29, scheduled to cover the Nevada County Fair, at Watt Park, are close at hand. Each day adds more interest for the visitor. Entries in all divisions; agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, home economics and industial exhibits are showing a daily increase in number. This does not mean the Fair Association has secured the required number.

On the contrary, books are still open in all divisions and a strong appeal is being made to increase the entries already contracted for. The division the Fair Association wishes to place stress upon is the "home economic" section.

What is wanted is entries from house wives throughout the county covering home preserves and canned products. Even though it is an individual jar of home product, its chances of winning the many worthwhile cash prizes is just as great as though the entry covered a number of items.

The main thing is to consider this fair "your personal fair"—Your exhibit is very important—Without it, the success of the undertaking is limited. Amusement, such as carnivals, free attracions, contests, grandstand attractions, can be contracted for. Such attractions are of a professional nature and can be purchased.

However, all entries of products made by residents of the county can only be secured through a sense of personal pride on the part of the participant and a feeling of duty, and it is a duty, that such entries as the individual might make will contribute greatly to the desired goal of better things for better living.

The Fair Association can assure all visitors of everything in the nature of entertainment that might be found in any district or fair meeting in the state. However, the matter of personal exhibits is strictly dependent upon the response and interest of our county residents. The time is short. Request information from the Fair offices located at 115 West Main Street, or by letter, P. O. Box 1104, Grass Valley, for complete details as to how you can play your part in making the 1948 Nevada County Fair a huge success.—Remember, entries in all divisions close definitely, Thursday, August 19th.

The Nugget Salutes . . .

GRASS VALLEY: Today the Nugget salutes a young war veteran-business man and welcomes him to our twin business communities. Neal Ellsworth Hurlbert is the new manager of the Grass Valley Furniture Co., replacing popular A. K. (Jerry) Girard, who recently resigned.

Hurlbert comes to the Grass Valley store from Rafler Co.'s Auburn Furniture Store. There he was assistant manager under Donald Black. The young business man, 25, had gained experience in furniture lines during employment in Los Angeles, previous to his employment with Rafler Company.

His manner is quiet and sincere, and a philosophical sense of humor reflects his intimate acquaintance with life's ups and downs.

Neal was born in the little town of Oxford, in the Republican Valley of Nebraska. He went to public schools there, and when he was 14 his family moved to Inglewood, California. He completed Junior College at Compton, and graduated with the class o f1940. In high school he was a varsity football and basketball man, and completed a general course.

His war record was impressive. He served in the signal corps of the army, and while battling in the European theater, achieved the rank of sergeant, first class. Hurlbert wears five battle stars, gained during 35 months of active combat, and the Purple Heart.

He was at Normandy on D-Day and kept right on going for Berlin with his signal corps unit. Besides D-Day, he fought in the battles for Brest, Brittany, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany, as well as the Ardennes, famed battle of the "Bulge."

Hurlbert is not a stranger to Grass Valley, for he spent a year here in 1946, selling life insurance. Many friends, as well as a number of classmates of Compton Junior High, Class of 1940, welcome him back.

He is enthusiastic about living here, and at present resides at 194 Race Street.

He brought her to the sheriff's office. Two deputies were dispatched and returned with the men, whom they found asleep in the car.

PARK MANAGER TO MEDIATE DISPUTE ON SOFTBALL

GRASS VALLEY: The Grass Valley City Council referred an argument between a girl's softball team and the Nevada County Softball Association Tuesday evening to Joseph Hocking, manager of Memorial Park, to settle the dispute amicably.

Crenshaw's softball team played a game in the park Sunday evening. They refused to turn the proceeds over to the association, because they said no games were scheduled for Sunday in the park, they had a right to its use, and they did not believe the association should control all softball games.

Bruce Wright, speaking for the softball association, declared that it has controlled softball activities for ten years and was organized for that purpose. That it has been permitted such control for a decade by the city council and the public, he said, seemed to constitute the tacit approval of both council and public.

Wright stressed the point that the money paid in by softball teams is used to help them all, and to provide recreation for all youngsters.

THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L., SR.

As one policeman remarked this week: "Slot machines of any kind are a pain in the neck." We believe the city council is doing the best it can with a new fangled type of slot machine, devised apparently by the manufacturer to pose a dilemma for the policeman. The dilemma is this: the machines can pay off but are advertised as non-payment machines. They will take the nickels of any player, but his only reward is to see a small cylinder revolve rapidly. If a certain combination of characters is revealed he gets a certain number of free plays, that is by pressing a button. The machine will operate without a nickel.

The question the policeman faces is: how honest is the bartender? If the bartender is honest the machines in his cafe lose trade rapidly. Another cafe where the bartender pays off on announcement of a winner, soon gets the trade of the slot machine players. Slot machines that pay off are played in violation of the law. The policeman is in a spot. He can not add to his many duties by standing guard over a slot machine.

The city council believes it has the answer. It proposes to license the payless slot machines. A healthy tax of $200 a year is proposed upon each machine. It would not seem possible that there are 4,000 idle nickels in the world, but in case there are the city will take them. But the minute any of these machines pay off, the policeman can pick them up. It can no longer be licensed.

It is believed that cafe owners who conduct their business on the up and up will no longer be interested in slot machines under this ordinance. There are probably not 4,000 idle nickels for every machine in every cafe. Accordingly this will reduce the number of machines in Nevada City. It will make the policeman's job a little easier, but not much. He will have to listen carefully to every tale of machines paying off. He might even hire an undercover man from out of town to make the rounds once in a while just to see if the machines are performing according to the ordinance. As long as customers poke nickels into a rat hole with no reward, except very occasionally for the privilege of punching a button a few times without paying, the machines are safe.

It is really quite incredible that anyone should devise a machine which offers no profit to the customer, not even the remote 10 per cent that the old one armed bandit offered. What every policeman will suspect is that the introduction of the free play machines is just the entering wedge of that ancient one armed bandit. Once these hapless stooges are introduced and licensed, the old fellow thinks he has a foot in the door. He probably believes that once the slot players in the town have had a taste, just a taste, of the joys of poking money into a rat hole, they will demand a chance to win back some of their squandered money. They hope when this demand becomes a "rarin' tearin" demand, the police department will wink and look the other way. and that the city council and the mayor, will wink and never see what's going on, and ultimately the hoary old bandit is back on his stool, the town is wide open, and the goose, every like bingo. He opened up a nice nickel, hangs high.

Well, we doubt very much if that will happen. We remember a bird who came in here with a fancy gambling game, something linke bingo. He opened up a nice parlor, with a table and chairs all around it,, but we never saw those chairs all occupied. The place had a big window and was wide open. Everyone could see what was going on. But it didn't "take" either sentimentally or financially. It was only a few doors from the city hall and the police kept an eye on it. The proprietor kept wondering what was the matter. Really there was something the matter. The people of Nevada City are not gamblers and they do believe in law and law enforcement.

In due time that "glittering palace of vice" folded up and moved out of town. Now we don't say the town could not be educated to like one armed bandits and such, but the city council does not propose to aid in that education nor does our police department.

Gold Digger's Trail

Charles Scott Haley

Early in the morning, stiff and cold, I got up from the sand where I had been fitfully dozing, and started out. The sun shot up from the horizon, and I was soon warm enough. But thirst was sharp, and I was weak from steady walking. About noon, I came over a rise and looked down over a valley at Stone Cabin, still ten miles away. The cool patch of willow trees looked very inviting from the distance.

Anyhow, I made it about five o'clock in the afternoon, but I was walking in stretches of a hundred yards at a time. This was my first experience of what desert heat could do to a man. I was never in any danger, because I could see my goal, but it was mighty good to get to that water.

Next day I stopped at a water hole and filled my canteen, on the road to Tonopah, but only as I was leaving did I notice the body of a dead rat floating on the other side of the hole.

So it was not surprising that I came home to Berkeley about a month later with my weight down by thirty pounds and a body weakened from what had narrowly missed being a sever case of typhoid. But the financing had been completed, my partner was working on the claim, and after another eighteen months, we sold our property and made a nice profit.

My senior year in college had a new meaning for me now. I knew what it was all about, and cleared up a lot of "conditions" in time to graduate with my class. So Nevada had done me much good after all.

The year I was turned loose on an unappreciative world from college happened also to be a panic year. Elated by my easy finding of a job the year before, I inveigled a friend from my own house and an old high school pal who was a football star at Stanford, to come to Nevada with me. It was easy to get a job—nothing to it. I knew.

So one bright morning in June, we three got off the train at Humboldt House and started across the desert northerly for a bright new camp—a recent strike called Rosebud. There is a whimsical air of nostalgia about the names of many new camps, for this particular place was as far from the habitat of a rose as it well could be—in the dryest part of the Black Rock Desert.

About all we had between us was a suitcase apiece, three good pairs of legs, and twenty dollars in cash. The road was long and hot, and the suitcases were heavy; but before noon some teams hauling hay to the sulphur mine about six miles from Rosebud, caught up with us and gave us a ride. NUGGET RECIPES

It's news to most folks when something different can be done with a tried and true favorite. Take Pot roasts for example. They're one of the most popular meats there is, so it's intriguing to know that they can be served in an entirely original way and still retain their traditional goodness and flavor.

This way, according to Reba Staggs, home economist, is to serve the pot roast in individual sized servings. And the amazing part of it is that there is no need to cut a full-size pot roast into smaller ones—there is a cut of meat that is just right for cooking as an individual pot roast.

This cut, continues Miss Staggs, is the cross-cut beef shank. When carefully browned and slowly cooked in a covered container with a small amount of liquid (the cooking process known as braising) cross-cut shanks make out-of-the-ordinary pot roasts.

The pot roasts may be cooked in a single casserole, or they may be prepared in little individual casseroles with covers—these latter are especially appropriate if you make a specialty of pot roasts, as you may well do.

Various gravies may be served with the pot roasts. A spicy gravy provides interesting contrast. Make it by thickening meat drippings with 3 or 4 gingersnaps and adding a bit of vinegar to taste. Another way to give pot roast the "new look" is to serve it with vegetable gravy, instead of cooking the vegetables with the meat. For a summery touch, use vegetables fresh from your garden.

Beef Shank Pot Roast with Vegetable Gravy

3 pounds cross-cut beef shanks
½ cup enriched flour
3 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 onion, finely chopped
1 cup water
2 cups chopped carrots
1 green perrep, chopped
1 cup chopped celery

Dredge meat in seasoned flour and brown on all sides in fat. Add onion and water. Cover closely and simmer 3 to 4 hours or until tender. Add vegetables and cook about 10 minutes. Remove meat and vegetables and make gravy from liquid in which meat and vegeatbles have cooked. Serves 6.

MEAT SOUPS FOR SUMMER

The smart summer cook is one who keeps her meals cool, light and refreshing, yet at the same time inexpensive. Summer soups made with meaty soup bones and fresh garden vegetables are an appetizing way to do this, suggests Reba Staggs, food authority.

If you ask for soup bones frequently at your eat dealer's, he may begin to save his best ones for you. There is plenty of the good meat flavor left on the bones, so they add not only interest but nutrition and filling qualities as well to your meals.

Cover the soup bone with water, add salt, pepper and herbs if you like, then cover the kettle and cook at simmering heat for about 2 or 3 hours. That allows plenty of time for gardening or taking care of the lawn. Be sure to bring in some carrots, green pepper, onions and potatoes from the garden, to cut fine and cook in the soup stock until just-tender. Add sandwiches, fruit salad and a beverage for a fine summer meal.

Or remove the bone from the soup stock and store the soup immdiately in the refrigerator to heat up with vegetables for a quick lunch or supper dish. Either way saves time, money and tempers during hot weather.

BARBECUED RIBS

Quick tricks for summer cooking appeal to even the most experienced homemaker. For instance, every good cook knows that cooking for more than one meal at a time is common sense during summer weather. But does she realize the possibilities along this line, outside of the large cuts of meat that are roasted or cooked in liquid, asks Reba Staggs, food authority?

Another cut that can be included in this repertoire is barbecued spareribs. If you are barbecuing ribs at your outdoor fireplace or even indoors, prepare enough for another meal. Well-chilled spareribs are almost unbelievably good.

Store the ribs in the refrigerator, well-wrapped, so that none of their juiciness is lost. Then bring them forth again soon as the main feature of a meal that also includes French bread, hot corn-on-the-cob and iced tea.

Who pays for new telephones?

1. This sight represents a lot of money. For the land, buildings, equipment, and wires needed to serve each new telephone cost us far more than prewar . . . just as the things you buy cost more. To meet the West's growing telephone needs we're putting more than half a million dollars to work every day.

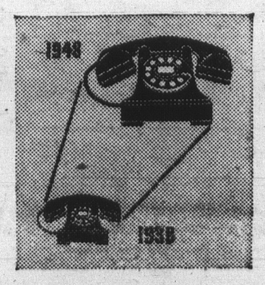

2. This complex equipment can't be paid for out of telephone bills . . . it takes a lot of new money furnished by investors. But the telephone bill does play an important part. It covers wages and taxes and other costs of services and—when rates are fair and adequate—leaves a few cents profit to pay investors for the use of their money.

3. Can a housewife pay for new telephones? Many do. For many thousands own telephone stocks and bonds. Money for a vast amount of new facilities comes from such investors. To keep the system growing and improving, we must keep on attracting new money to pay for it. We can do it only if we sell our services at fair and adequate prices.

4. When you make a local call, your cost averages less than a nickel. For those few pennies you hire a mighty servant . . . a bigger servant than ever before. There will soon be twice as many telephones on the Coast as ten years ago. More are being added. And each new one makes your telephone just that much more valuable.

MOST LICENSES LOST FOR DRUNK DRIVING

With a total of 430,000 motorists ruled off the nation's streets and highways by suspension or revocation of their driver's licenses during 1947, drunken driving was the predominant cause of loss of driving privilege.

For the nation, 40 per cent of the drivers banned from the road lost their permits as a result of convictions for driving while under the influence of liquor, according to figures of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

In California last year 24,478 suspensions and revocations out of a total of 32,448 were for drunk driving or approximately 75 per cent of the total, the California State Automobile Association reports. In a number of other states the ratio of drunk driving suspensions ran as high as 60 or 70 per cent.

In November, 1946, Clifornia's program to remove accident-prone drivers and persistent violtors from the highways was renewed, following a lapse during the war years, and many Californians who lost thir driving privilege during 1947 were in that category.

With more than 53,000,000 licensed drivers in the nation, of which 4,696,000 are in California, Motor Vehicle Administrators are increasing their efforts to eliminate operators who will not or cannot drive safely, not solely as a matter of punishment, but in the interests of public welfare and highway safety.

COFFEEMAKER MOST USED UTENSIL

DAVIS: The coffeemaker is the kitchen utensil most often used by the American housewife, it was found in a survey conducted in a co-operative project in three states, California, Nebraska, and Rhod Island. The survey for California was directed by Dr. Jean Warren, Assistant Professor of Home Economics at the University of California College of Agriculture.

The results which were basically the same in the Western, Eastern, and Midwestern states ought to be important not only to manufacturers and retailers, but also to the homemakers themselves.

Next to the coffeemaker housewives make most frequent use of the frying pan, 10 to 12 inches in diameter. A smaller, 8-inch frying pan came in tenth. On the other hand, the 1½ quart saucepan made third place, while bigger saucepans lagged behind, in sixth and eighth position. The pancake turner was fourth and the bread knife fifth. The lowly dishpan ranked seventh, five medium sized egg beater ninth.

Far back mong the also-rans were the baking utensils, which may be an indication that farm homemakers do less baking than formerly. Dr. Warren and her group also made the interesting discovery that family size had no influence on the kind, number and size of utensils.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The Christian Science Society of Nevada City holds services every Sunday in their church at 114 Boulder St. at 11 o'clock.

Sunday School at 9:45 A. M. Wednesday evening testimonial meetings are held on the first and third Wednesday of each month at 8 o'clock.

Our Reading Room is in the church foyer. It is open Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, holidays excepted from 2 to 4 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend our services and visit our Reading Room.

"Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my soul" (Psalms 66:16). This is the Golden Text for the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Christian Science churches on Sunday, August 15. The subject is "Soul."

Included in the sermon are these citations:

Genesis: "And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day. And he said, Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with God and with men, and hast prevailed" (32:24,28).

"Science and Health with Key tothe Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Then Jacob questioned his deliverer, 'Tell me, I pray thee, thy name;' but this appellation was withheld, for the messenger was not a corporeal being, but a nameless, incorporeal impartation of divine Love to man, which, to use the word of the Psalmist, restored his Soul, — gave him the spiritual sense of being and rebuked his material sense" (p. 308).

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder now, indeed I do
About the mind of man,
It's like a temple builded by
A strange bewildering plan.
Some parts are fair and beautiful
All filled with glowing light,
But there are others quite obscure
Where dwell the shades of night.

Some years ago, we visited the Winchester mystery house, near San Jose, California. A new guide had taken over and he had not yet learned his way about. He depended upon arrows placed in doorways by the former guide and even with these aids to point the way, seemed uncertain at times. We hoped he would succeed in leading us from the maze of rooms, hallways and cubbyholes, for we felt sure we would never reach the outer world if left to our own devices.

I Wonder at the vagaries of the twisted mind that planned and chose to live in so weird a structure; it has an amazing number of rooms, some of them made beautiful by every device of the builder's art, others are dark, forbidding enclosures, approached by dismal winding hallways, where the ghosts which Miss Winchester imagined, seem really to exist and mutter disturbing warnings as we passed by.

There were stairways leading nowhere, windows that opened upon bare walls, trap doors under which were solid floors and innumerable other contraptions just as strangely nonsensical.

I Wonder if the mind of man may be likened to the old Winchester house. It is indeed like a vast castle furnished with varied compartments, some bright and sunlit, others shrouded in the darkness of night.

We, you and I, may think that our minds are four square, with windows open to the sunlit dawn and the beauty of sunset, to the northern star and the southern cross, but are they?

Let's examine these mental structures of ours; are there dark corners wherein ancient ghosts gibber, mutter and peep? Goodness, I hope not! Still we, you and I, would do well to inspect the obscure corners and open the darkened windows. If there are departments wherein we harbor old hates, prejudices and superstitions, let's let the light shine in. Let's drive from the castle which is our mind, the poisonous insects which may, almost unknown to us, infest it.

Hate, scorn, wrath, fear and intolerance are but a few of the noisome insects which infest the human mind. If we let the sunlight of reason stream in these creatures of the night will flee and we shall be well rid of them.

I Wonder if Rebecca West, the English columnist, was correct in declaring that the young people who follow the Wallace movement are "terrible youngsters." We do not like to think that so many of our young people are "terrible." They may be confused, illogical, easily misled, often unwise; we admit all that; but "terrible?" Isn't that word a bit too strong?

Mr. Wallace is no doubt a sort of political pied piper, but I think, if I correctly recall the old legend, that the children all came back, when the oldsters put their houses in order and met their honest oblibations.

Uncle Silas says: "Filibuster? Let's call it sillybuster and say that the congressional sillybusters have sillybusted the poll tax bill into the limbo of sound and fury where the taxpayer's money goes up in a smog of futility."

Veterans News

Veterans attending colleges and universities under the G-I Bill must obtain supplemental certificates of eligibility from Veterans Administration if they plan to enroll in a new school this fall.

The certificates should be requested from the VA regional office at least 30 days before the date the term opens at the new school. Advance requests will help speed prompt payment of sub sistence allowances after the start of the new term.

Supplemental certificates to the original certificates of eligibility issued by VA are necessary only when a veteran changes from one school or training establishment to another.

The veteran's full name, correct address, VA claim number and present training establishment should be included in any request for new certificates.

There are three important points to remember for veterans who are planning to enter school for the first time this fall under the G-I Bill.

1. The veteran's first step to a college education is to find a school that will accept him

2. A certificate of eligibility must be obtained from the Veterans Administration and submitted to the school at the time of entry. The VA suggests that you call at the nearest Veterans Adinistration office and obtain it now.

3. The veteran must make satisfactory grades. G-I students must make passing marks in order to continue their studies under the G-I Bill.

QUESTION: I am going to school under Public Law 16 and would like to know if I can borrow money from Veterans Administration in case of need when I enter training?

ANSWER: Yes. Loans from a revolving fund, provided by Congress, not exceeding $100 in any case, may be made to trainees commencing or undertaking Vocational Rehabilitation.

QUESTION: I am training under the G-I Bill and am writing a thesis for my Ph. D. Will the government pay the cost of publishing this thesis?

ANSWER: No.

GOLD DIGGER'S TRAIL

later I was to be president of the company that owned and operated that sulphur mine, and in the year of the Great Panic, was to be taken for an even longer ride.

We said goodbye to our friends of the haywagons a few miles from Rosebud and walked into camp.

The place was about six months old and had all the rawness and vigor of the average Nevada camp. We saw tent houses for the most part, with high board fronts on the inevitable saloon and gambling house combinations. Small head frames were visible all around and through the camp ,with tales of ore of unbelievable richness in the mouths of all of its citizens. But one thing was lacking. They were not working.

The tightening of purse strings which comes after a wild spending spree and which is inevitable in our country, had come to the West. And in contrast to the year before when I found a job in twenty-four hours, here there were no jobs to be had, in spite of persistent "rustling" on the part of all of us. And our capital was getting low.

Some months before, a colored man by the name of Jim Brown had struck stringers of high grade ore and made a shipment. It immediately attracted attention, and a rush had turned Rosebud into a boom camp. But when development work was started, the stringers of high grade were few and far between.

In this connection, they told a good story of Jim Brown. He was the only colored man in his part of the state, and an honest, self-respecting miner. Later, he was to work for me for many years, and I knew him well. At the time the camp was started, it was agreed by a miners' committee that Oriental labor should be excluded. So, when a Chinese came in on top of the stage one day, Jim was delegated to tell him off. As soon as the stage came in, Jim walked out and very politely addressed himself to the pigtailed newcomer.

"Mistah Chinaman, what you-all aimin to do in dese parts?"

The Oriental looked down at him with a poker face.

"I no know. Mebbe staht liddie laundlie—washem clo'e."

"Well, now, mistah Chinaman, Ah reckon Ah wouldn't do dat. You-all can stay heah tonight and get youah feed, but tomorrow Ah reckon you'd bettah pull you' freight. You see, us boys done got together and we all decided dat dis yeah Rosebud's goin' to be a white man's camp!'"

Mister Chinaman pulled his freight the next morning.

"Boss wrangler" of all P. G. and E.'s electrical horsepower is the System Dispatcher who sits in front of this giant control board in Oakland. His word, spoken into a telephone, starts giant generators whirling at a hydro plant in the High Sierra or spins a turbine in a steam generating plant miles away. And when less power is needed his word stops the flow. For the Dispatcher keeps our vast system efficiently balanced to meet your demands every instant... to make P. G. and E.'s 3,000,000 horsepower do its work well for California.

When trouble strikes, the dispatcher's job gets hectic. He must call on other plants to increase their power output and make the service interruption, if any, as brief as possible.

Your breakfast toast is part of the dispatcher's responsibility. For he must make sure that our tremendous power output is working for you...as much as you need...when you need it.

FOR THE RECORD
The dispatcher's job will be nearly 2,000,000 horsepower bigger... as P. G. and E. rushes more post-war power to California at a cost of more than $400,000,000. More than ⅓ of this new power will be serving you in less than a year.

HAWAII. Fifty years ago today, August 12, 1898, Hawaii was annexed to the United States. It was a fruitful acquisition in many ways. The name is given to a chain of islands located about 2200 miles southwest of San Francisco. The total area is 6449 square miles. All of the islands are volcanic cones. There are nearly 1,000 species of flowering plants and some 200 varieties of fern. There are no large mineral deposits. No reptiles except lizards. When discovered by Captain Cook, in 1778, there were many kings and the land was held by military tenure. It had been a land of honey and ease for the natives. Now a land of sugar and pineapples and a land of ease for people of means.

LUMBER. According to a recent report, there is only about 30 more years of lumber output in our country. We have so depleted our forests. It is something to think about. Also destroying the forests destroys our water sheds. Man is aided in this destruction by forest fires. If you are a land owner plant ponderosa, Douglar fir, white fir or redwood, where and when you can. In California, Humboldt County leads in lumber production, with Plumas, Shasta and Eldorado next in line.

MONO COUNTY FISHING

Fishing is reported good in Grant Lake and the back country of Mono County is proving productive. Lundy, Orieda, Crystal and Blue Lakes are improving, although Trumbull and June Lake still slow. Silver Lake is improving. East Lake in Green Creek area is giving good fishing and Upper Twin at Bridgeport is good. West Walker River in Pickle Meadows provides good catches.

KEEP WATER CIRCULATING

Sufficient heat is developed by the average automobile engine to warm a six-room house in zero weather, points out the California State Automobile Association, which warns that even a slightly clogged radiator retards circulation of water and causes overheating.
